

DocAssist – a Smarter Law case study

Smarter Law elements

Process improvement

Digitisation

The challenge

Hall & Wilcox manages a high volume of legal transactions across the compulsory acquisitions space. To do this more efficiently, our Compulsory Acquisitions team needed a way to accurately capture and store data. This data would need to automate the document generation process, enabling the generation of multiple documents used in compensation claims. The solution had to be cost-effective and easy for the users to engage with.

What Smarter Law delivered

Significant data entry time saving

Minimised data errors

Increased lawyer productivity

Central data automatically being fed into suite of 14
documents and emails

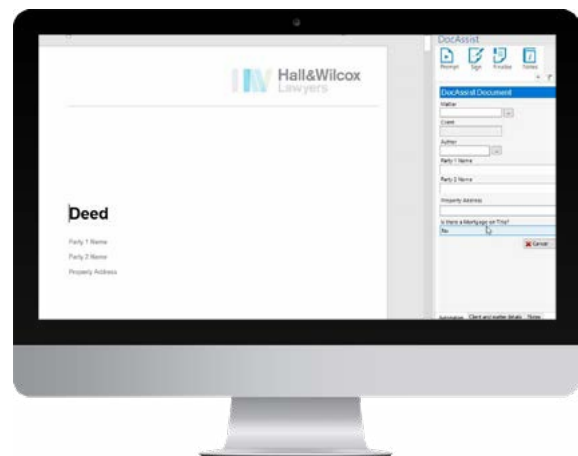

The solution

The Hall & Wilcox Client Solutions team worked with the Compulsory Acquisitions team to map the processes and documents required, as well as identifying the data that needed to be captured. They then looked at a range of document automation solutions and selected DocAssist.

DocAssist has an easy-to-use interface and operates within the Microsoft Office environment. Its write-back functionality makes it possible to capture and store data when drafting documents. This information can then be re-used to pre-populate other documents, including reports.

With help from the vendor MOSMAR, the Client Solutions Team were able to rapidly develop and implement the solution within a three month period.

Smarter together

Hall & Wilcox teams

Compulsory Acquisitions team

Kathryn Howard
Kelsey Essex
Sandra Todorovic
Lucy Wilcox
Alex Lane

Client Solutions team

Sarah Russo
Sonja Johnstone
Rebecca Phillips